Applied Nanotech Holdings, Inc. Announces Investor Day

Austin, TX, November 14, 2008 – Applied Nanotech Holdings, Inc. (OTC BB: APNT) announced that it will hold an investor day on Thursday, December 11, 2008 in Austin. The investor day will include an open house at the Company's facilities, as well as a presentation on the company and its lines of business. The audio portion of the presentation will also be webcast. Additional information related to the location of the presentation and the time and web address for the webcast will be released prior to the investor day.

During the presentation we will discuss our technology, related intellectual property, and addressable markets, with a particular focus on providing deeper insights into three relationships that have reached, or are nearing, the licensing stage. The presentation will also include a discussion of the Company's path to profitability in 2009.

"We encourage all shareholders to visit with us in person to gain a greater understanding of our technology and prospects," said Tom Bijou, Chairman and CEO of Applied Nanotech Holdings, Inc.
